

“Know your history,
and you’ll always be wise.”

– African proverb

OLH Inc. invites you to join us in celebrating National Black History Month. Created in 1926 by Carter G. Woodson, it documents and celebrates the contributions of African Americans to American History. Black History Month has educated many about the foundation upon which the continued success and achievements of African Americans has been built.

We would like to remember those contributions, for it is not only the history of African Americans we are learning about, but the history of America itself.

This month (and the whole year!) we salute African American owned businesses and the people like you who support them.

Thank you for supporting us and helping us to continue to contribute to history!
